STAKE ACADEMY LECTURE COURSE

Brilliant Array of Poets, Authors, Artists and Lecturers to Entertain Public.

PROCRAM BEGINS JANUARY 14

Unfortunate German Sent to Mental Hospital-Incorrigible Again in Trouble -- News Briefs.

"You are invited to take Pot-luck with a Poet' on Jan. 14, 1905." Such is the invitation extended to the Ogden public by the Weber stake academy lecture committee. The poet to be introduced on that day is Edmund Vance Cooke, author of "Impertment Poems," "Rimes to be Read," "A Patch of Pansies," etc. a poet who has in him "Something of Riley, something of Field, nor is there lacking the keenness of Twain, yet unlike any of them, he is the original Cooke, the cordial and genial poet, entertainer, and philoso-The committee has certainly made a good selection in choosing Mr. Cooke to open the lecture course for

And yet, a glance at the program shows that Mr. Cooke is but a star among others, each equally brilliant in his respective sphere. There is F. Hop-kinson Smith, author, artist, and lecturer of national reputation. His "Colonel Carter of Cartersville" has been read by tens of thousands, and his Tom Crogan" is no less popular. Mr. Smith is scheduled to appear in Ogden

"Colonel Carter of Cartersville" will followed by Albert Armstrong in three illustrated readings as follows: "The Bonnie Brier Bush," 17 scenes, 11 nes, 13 characters; "The Sky Pilot cenes, 18 characters.

All this is but preparatory to the ming of Prof. S. H. Clark of the Unirsity of Chicago. His services have d to give at least two dramatic reitals. Just what these will be is not et announced; but they will be masterpieces whatever they are. There is kerpieces whatever they are. There is a strong sentiment in avor of his repeating "Ulysses" as one, and giving "Cyrano De Bergerae" as the other. A few who have heard of his masterful interpretation of the Book of Job desire to hear him in that. It's too bad the committee cannot get them all. Such a man as Clark should be kept here at least a week,

After Prof. Clark's visit the public may leave the fields of dramatic art and literary interpretation for the "Wonders of Modern Science," including radium and wireless telegraphy. These will be shown by W. J. Clarke. he well known electrical engineer of

New York City, The local lecturer in the course is Hon, B. H. Roberts, who comes some time in April. Prof. Maud May Bab-cook, who interested her audiences last rear in "The Place of Dialect in Literature," and "Tennyson," has been chosen to give a reading in May. She will lose one of the best if not the best ecture course ever given in the state. The committee assuming the responsi bility of giving it should receive every encouragement, for the entire community will be better for having heard such talent as that mentioned above. This morning the thermometer registered 16 degrees below zero at the rail-way depot, and 10 below up in town The drouth has been so long and con-tinued that the dust under the snow is nearly as deep as the snow. It is believed that this storm in connectic with those that may come during the early spring months practically ensures a water supply for the coming season. So confident are the farmers and everybody else for that matterthat they are celebrating the holidays with a hearty good will.

ANENT THE SUGAR FACTORY. The recent sugar factory excitement as created a livey interest among the farmers. An active canvass has been going on relative to securing sufficient acreage to justify the erection of a factory in this vicinity.

Another meeting will be held in this city next Friday at the court house, when Mr. Austin, representing the Lehi sugar factory, will speak. It is conidently expected that a proposition will be submitted from that source that will be acceptable to the beet growers and farmers of this section of country. JANUARY JURY LIST.

BEET FIELDS OF SNAKE RIVER

Unexcelled for Profitable Results-Some Phenomenal Yields.

Special Correspondence.

Lchi, Utah Co., Dec. 29.—Mr. Heber Austin, general agricultural superintendent of the Idaho and Frement County Sugar companies, is spending the holidays with his family here. Mr. Austin speaks in glowing terms of the Snake River vailey, of the excellent land and water rights they have there and says they have more water than is needed, and it would be better if not so much water was used. In speaking of the sugar business there he said the farmers in a general way were well satisfied with beet culture, many intelligent farmers produced a very profitable crop of heets this last season, and the farmers of Idaho in a short time will undoubtedly make the culture, many intelligent farmers produced a very profitable crop of beets this last season, and the farmers of Idaho in a short time will undoubtedly make the same success in raising beets as the Utah county farmers. The soil on the Snake river is good, and the climate is admirably adapted for the growing of sugar beets as the nights never get hot as they do in the central counties of Utah.

The farmers having large land holdings are able to rotate their crops by breaking up alfalfa and bringing it into beet culture, and a great many of these are plowing under their second crop of lucern which seems to be just the thing to prepare the soil for the growing of sugar beets. As an example, Messrs, Woodhouse and Gaddie of Idaho Falls plewed under in August, 1903, a heavy second crop of alfalfa and planted to acres into sugar beets in the spring of 1904. This acreage produced $6.610.50. They employed Japanese labor to do the hand work for something over $2,100. The team work was done by themselves, namely, plowing, harrowing, preparing the seed bed, planting the seed, cultivating and irrigating the beets and hauling the same to the factory, which cost $2,-378, leaving a net profit of $2,190. Now, this land has a value of $15 per acre, showing a dividend of 30 per tant on the value of the land. Among many other successful farmers might be mentioned Bishop Rockwood of Iona, who produced very close to 19 tons of beets to the acre on a 25-acre patch, neting him a profit of $40 per acre. George Ward and Ezra T. Williams also did as well. This shows that the beet business properly handled is the most profitable branch of farming that the farmers of land and there is any amount of labor there prepared to contract for all hand labor, and the farmer only has to make preparations to do the team work. In the Framont county factory heet districts the results were equally as good as at Idaho Falls, and the prospects for next year are excellent. next year are excellent.

Special Correspondence.

Nephi, Juah Co., Dec. 28.—Yesterday Judge Marioneaux heard the election contest case brought by Miss Louie Chappell, Democratic hominee for county recorder, against R. T. Cowan. It appears, by the showing that was made of the taily sheets of the Levan precinct, that an error was made in the carrying out of the totals of 10 votes in Cowan's favor, thus making it appear that he was lected by eight. The official count did not discover the error, so a certificate of election was issued to Mr. Cowan, and this action was brought to set aside his certificate, which was to set aside his certificate, which was done and Miss Chappell was declared elected.
